

Ringling College offers students a wide array of options for on-campus housing in traditional residence halls, apartment complexes, and over 30 near campus houses. And since over 70% of students choose to live on campus, we strive to make our campus housing convenient, safe, and comfortable. Our amenities include furnished living quarters, meal plan options, on-call staff, proximity to campus services, classrooms and studios, utilities, and 24-hour campus security. For additional safety, access to each floor of our traditional residence halls is limited to its residents only.

We go beyond the typical college residence hall since our housing is designed specifically for creatives, offering plenty of collaboration spaces, large-scale project workrooms, and access to our many student resources.

The majority of students entering Ringling for the first time, both first-time in college and transfer students, are housed in Goldstein and Greensboro Halls, centrally located on campus for convenience and proximity to campus facilities.

Goldstein is a state-of-the-art facility built for collaboration. The ground floor offers a student lounge area with games and activities, the Mailroom, Student Activities Office, Residence Life Office, and the Esports arena. Goldstein rooms are double and triple suites connected by a bathroom to another suite. Each room typically measures 11x16 ft and contains a microwave and mini-refrigerator for shared use. Project rooms for creating large-scale projects are located on each floor. Based on the popularity of on campus housing, half of the double rooms have been increased to triples to accommodate all students wishing to live on campus.

Greensboro Hall opened in the Fall 2020 semester. Greensboro Hall rooms are suites with two double rooms sharing a common entry. The common entry contains the bathroom, refrigerator, and microwave to share. Greensboro Hall also has a limited number of four-person single-room suites. Similar to the suite doubles, the four students in single rooms share a common entry, bathroom, refrigerator, and

Ringling College of Art and Design is committed to providing appropriate access to its facilities and programs in compliance with the Americans with Disabilities Act, Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, the Fair Housing Act, and applicable state law. These procedures establish the scope of access and procedures for individuals who use service animals, who are accompanied by a service animal (SA) in training, and for students living in College housing who require an Emotional Support Animal (ESA) as a Ringling College of Art and Design does not accept documentation for fraudulent online websites that "register" your pet as an emotional support animal. Please note that you should not be paying to have an Emotional Support Animal. ESAs meet the definition by being part of an ongoing treatment plan, therefore, the student must already have the animal and it must have been deemed a successful implementation into the treatment process before the animal coming to campus. The animal should have appropriate obedience skills and meet the requirements of Florida state law. Emotional Support Animals are typically a year or older.

Once the documentation is received, the verification and review of information begin. This is not an automatic approval, and there are steps to complete. Until the animal is approved through all channels with written permission, the animal is not permitted on campus.

Add Ringling College students have their choice of several on-campus dining locations.

All new students living on campus in Goldstein and Greensboro Halls are required to purchase the full meal plan. The meal plan which includes 19 meals per week and $250 dining dollars is automatically added to the student account.

Students receive their mailbox number during new student orientation. All mail and packages should be sent to the same mailing address while the student is enrolled.

Please note, the mailroom only accepts deliveries from major carriers: USPS, UPS, FedEx, DHL. The mailroom does not accept delivery from any same day or independent delivery drivers such as UberEats, DoorDash, Hello Fresh, Target, Michaels, Walmart, Amazon-Whole Foods, or Weee. Additionally, for packages that are not accepted by the mailroom, there is a drop-off location located between Goldstein and Greensboro Hall.

When a package arrives, Mail Services scans the tracking number and an email is sent to the student Ringling email account with an alert that your package has arrived. To retrieve the package(s) students must bring their student ID to the Mail Services window then sign and receive packages.

Questions about mail should be sent to Mail Services.

Housing for students who are new to Ringling, both first-year and transfer, is guaranteed for the first year for those students who enroll and submit a housing application by May 1. After the first year, housing is on a space-available basis through a yearly housing lottery in the spring.
